II. Catalog Description

This is an introductory course which traces the history of Rock N’ Roll music from its rise as a blending of White and African-American music traditions amidst the youth-oriented culture of post-World War II America to its subsequent diversification and internationalization. This history will be viewed in the context of the political, historical, demographic, cultural and technological forces at work in the modern and post-modern world. The course will also encourage the development of qualitative and quantitative listening skills and will incorporate extensive use of recorded musical examples. Students will be expected to complete listening and research assignments.

III. State of Course Need

A. This course addresses the need for students to learn contemporary musical history, and to be able to place the music of our times in cultural/historical context. Late 20th Century music is only minimally addressed in Introduction to Music course and the technology which helped create and define the stylistic parameters of Rock N’ Roll are only tangentially addressed in the Music Synthesis course. Conversely, students encounter Rock N’ Roll every day of their lives in a multitude of venues, but are rarely if ever encouraged to listen critically to it or to consider it in a larger context.

B. Course transferability: Upon evaluation by most of the participating colleges in the www.njtransfer.org website, this course generally transfers to most colleges as a General Education course in the Arts and Humanities, as an Arts elective, or as a Free elective.
