Students will study counterpoint and voice-leading, chorale harmonization and analysis, contextual harmony, and the basic phrase model.

III. Statement of Course Need
A. This course is the second of four semesters of music theory study required in music major curriculums. Music Theory I-IV and Musicianship I-IV are core requirements in all AFA music degree programs. Each level of Music Theory is co-requisite with the corresponding level of Musicianship and the levels must be taken in sequence. They form the foundation of a musician’s skills and literacy, and are, in addition to a student’s performance audition, the placement testing focus for transferring music students to a four-year program.
